

Help paint the Graceland Mural

This summer, the much-anticipated “refresh” of Graceland will get underway. Central to that is the painting of a vibrant mural on the building. Artist and former resident of Children’s Village, Arshaad Norwood is leading this effort and needs lots of volunteers to help with the painting. Arshaad says “think paint by numbers” - it is that easy. We need as many residents as possible to participate. Email Elizabeth Mansour to learn about dates and times and to volunteer - emansour@christiancity.org.

Arshaad lived at Christian City’s Children Village as a young teen through his high school graduation. Through the love of his house parents and a place to call home, what could have been a life of lost potential turned into a life of art and beauty. Arshaad credits his success to “all those that poured into him” and helped him become the man and artist that he is today. He earned his Bachelor of Arts from LaGrange College and began his professional career in Atlanta. As the current Graphic Design Educator and Lead Art Instructor at Westlake High School, Arshaad has won many artistic accolades and was nominated as teacher of the year.
